

Mentor RIA Consulting

Allowing you to focus on what you do best

Business Succession Planning Basics for Clients

Making your small business successful takes a lot of ongoing effort and thought. Even if you have a team of trained employees in place, a great deal likely depends on you and your efforts. So, have you given much thought to what will happen to your business when you are no longer able or interested in keeping up the level of effort you now expend?

It may be decades in the future or in a month. Life is uncertain, just like the markets and the business world. The day will come when you will not be working at the level you are today – making it essential that you plan for that tomorrow.

For more, contact us at www.mentorriac.com or e-mail us at info@mentorriac.com